

Malaria in the Media

THE LATEST NEWS AND MULTIMEDIA CONTENT ABOUT THE FIGHT AGAINST MALARIA

Congress's Bipartisan Deal to Spend Billions More Fighting Malaria, HIV, and Tuberculosis Abroad

— Vox

"At the surface, Congress is a total mess. Below, it's actually getting some big stuff done." Photo credit: Mandel Ngan/AFP via Getty Images

READ

VIDEO: Bill Gates - Not Competing with New Generation, but with Malaria

— Al Jazeera

"The Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation's co-chair discusses if the world is ready for another health emergency." The segment about malaria starts at 10:15.

WATCH

VIDEO: A Conversation with the US Global Malaria Coordinator, Dr. David Walton

— United to Beat Malaria

Last Fall, the Biden Administration appointed Dr. David Walton as the U.S. Global Malaria Coordinator and head of the US President's Malaria Initiative (PMI). Beat Malaria's Margaret McDonnell sat down with Dr. Walton during ASTMH's Annual Meeting in Seattle to discuss malaria's multi-level impact, PMI's strategy to 'reach the unreachable,' and much more!

WATCH

VIDEO: Kenyan Scientist Invents Infrared Malaria Test Kit

— Nation

Dr. Maggy Lord leads a team of researchers at the University of Queensland in Australia who have developed a chemical-free, needle-free tool to detect malaria through the skin using infrared light.

WATCH

How Climate Change Is Spreading Malaria in Africa

— New York Times

"Mosquitoes that transmit malaria in sub-Saharan Africa have moved to higher elevations ... and away from the Equator ... over the past century, according to the study. That pace is consistent with climate change and may explain why malaria's range has expanded over the past few decades."

READ

PODCAST: Died & Survived - A Beginning or an End?

— Charlie Webster/Died & Survived

TV personality Charlie Webster opens up about surviving malaria while also exploring the transformational effects of near-death experiences.

LISTEN

New Research Shows Poor Insecticide Policy Led to Countless Needless Malaria Cases

— EurekAlert!

"[A new study] showed that ... children sleeping under bed nets treated with only [pyrethroids] still get malaria once a year on average, while their neighbors with dual-ingredients nets became ill at only half that rate."

READ

PODCAST: African Leadership in the Push for Malaria Eradication

— Johns Hopkins Malaria Minute

"In January's Malaria Minute Extended, we speak with Clive Shiff, Professor Emeritus at Johns Hopkins University, on the rise of the bed net and the importance of African leadership in the push for malaria eradication."

LISTEN

Gene Drives Could Fight Malaria and Other Global Killers but Might Have Unintended Consequences

— Scientific American

"A new technology could wipe out whole species. Is it a magic bullet or a genetic atom bomb?"

READ

PODCAST: Rotary Voices - A Mission to Eliminate Malaria

— Rotary International

"We check in with Rotarians Martha Lungu and Eric Liswaniso, who are working in their communities to combat malaria. We also explore the science behind malaria with Abigail Pratt, a senior program officer at the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation."

LISTEN

Craving more malaria news?

Check out the United to Beat Malaria blog, Exposure page, and YouTube channel for the latest updates and on-the-ground stories.

The Malaria Minute

podcast brings you global malaria news in 60-second doses. Subscribe wherever you get your podcasts.

Malaria World

aggregates malaria news stories.

World Malaria Report

The World Health Organization's annual resource is the definitive global malaria progress report.

FOLLOW US ON SOCIAL MEDIA!

